

Keynotes

Zoe M. Weinstein, MD, MS is an Assistant Professor at the Boston University Chobanian & Avedisian School of Medicine. She is a graduate of Boston University's Addiction Medicine Fellowship and board certified in Internal Medicine and Addiction Medicine. She has been the Director of Boston Medical Center's interdisciplinary addiction consult service since July 2016. She has been NIDA grant funded as a co-investigator on multiple studies to deliver training and technical assistance to interdisciplinary provider teams. She is currently site-PI of two NIDA Clinical Trial Network studies focused on inpatient addiction care. Her clinical and research work are also focused on long-term Office-Based Addiction Treatment (OBAT) with buprenorphine. She currently serves as Associate Director of Boston University's Addiction Medicine Fellowship Program, a board member of AMERSA and is a site medical director of a local methadone clinic.

Marielle Baldwin, MD, MPH is an Assistant Professor of Family Medicine at Boston University Chobanian and Avedisian School of Medicine and works clinically with the Family Medicine Residency Program at Boston University Medical Center (BUMC). She completed her family medicine residency and chief residency at BUMC in 2017.

Since joining the BU Department of Family Medicine, Dr. Baldwin has catalyzed a number of clinical programs and quality improvement efforts. She is the Medical Director for the Stimulant Treatment and Recovery Team (START), an extension of BMC's Office-Based Addiction Treatment (OBAT) Program and a clinic that uses evidence-based contingency management techniques to care for patients with stimulant use disorders. She is the Director of the Addiction Pathway for the BUMC Family Medicine Residency Program at South Boston Community Health Center and at Greater Roslindale Medical & Dental Center.

Dr. Baldwin teaches and mentors residents and junior faculty. She is the recipient of the 2021 New Faculty Clinical Excellence Award from the Boston University Medical Group and the 2021 Barbara A. Rockett, MD Early Career Physician Leadership Award from the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Master of Ceremony

Alane O'Connor, DNP is the director of perinatal addiction medicine at Maine Medical Center and is the medical advisor of the Maine Maternal Opioid Misuse (MaineMOM) Initiative, a 5-year, $5 million federal grant to expand access to substance use treatment for pregnant and postpartum individuals in Maine. She also co-chairs Maine's Opioid Response Clinical Advisory Committee, which advises the Governor's opioid response director on clinical and public policy issues. Dr. O'Connor has more than 15 years of experience in addiction medicine in a variety of settings including the design and implementation of an extended-release buprenorphine pilot at Somerset County Jail, rapid access to substance use treatment in emergency departments through Maine Medical Association's Project RISE, as well extensive experience caring for pregnant patients with substance use disorder in both the inpatient and outpatient settings. She lectures regionally and nationally and has trained more than 100 family medicine and obstetric resident physicians. She is a core faculty member of Maine's only addiction medicine fellowship program. Finally, she has published numerous peer reviewed articles on maternal and infant outcomes of substance exposed pregnancies including the related child welfare implications as well as the care of incarcerated pregnant patients.

Faculty

Melissa J. Caminiti, MPH, BSN, RN, is the Director of Recovery and Reentry Services with Wellpath, the medical vendor for the Maine Department of Corrections. She oversees the operationalization of substance use disorder treatment services for Maine's six adult state prison facilities. Treatment services include medications for substance use disorder, education and implementation of harm reduction strategies, and the development of peer recovery networks. She also supports staff and clients in Adult Community Corrections (probation). Additionally, she oversees comprehensive discharge planning for residents releasing with high acuity somatic and behavioral health needs.

She received both her Bachelor of Science in Nursing and her Master of Public Health from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Her previous work experience includes the application of quality improvement science in rural hospital and nursing home settings, as well as health policy work focused on women, children, and family systems impacted by substance use disorders.

Adrienne W. Carmack, MD, FAAP is a pediatrician and serves as the Medical Director of the Office of Child and Family Services of the Maine Department of Health and Human Services. She continues to work part time at Penobscot Pediatrics, part of Penobscot Community Health Care (PCHC), an FQHC in Bangor, Maine, where she has worked since 2007. At PCHC, she developed a program to serve the needs of children in foster care, called the Key Clinic, which provides Comprehensive Health Evaluations for children entering foster care in Eastern and Northern Maine and served as the Medical Director of the CHAMP Clinic, a collaborative program between NL EMMC and PCHC for the outpatient treatment of infants in the Bangor area with neonatal abstinence syndrome. Dr. Carmack currently serves on the Board of Directors of the Maine Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics Council of Foster Care, Adoption and Kinship Care.

Jonathan T. Fanburg, MD, MPH is a Pediatrician and Adolescent Medicine specialist who has worked in Maine for over 20 years seeing children, adolescents, and young adults. Presently, he is the Director of the Division of Adolescent and Young Adult Medicine at Maine Medical Center and an Associate Medical Director of Primary Care at Maine Medical Partners. Along with seeing patients aged 10-26, he works with school health, substance use, adolescent gynecology, eating disorders, and resident and attending education. He recently stepped off of the executive committee for the Section on Adolescent Health for the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Deborah Hagler, MD, MPH, FAAP has practiced pediatrics in Brunswick, Maine, for 25 years. She attended Cornell Medical College and did her pediatric training at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. In 2021 she completed a Master of Public Health at the Bloomberg School of Public Health at Johns Hopkins University, focusing on child and adolescent mental health and substance use.

Dr. Hagler has enjoyed raising a family in the beautiful state of Maine with her husband and been delighted to watch so many wonderful young people grow up. She has been an active member of the community serving as the school physician for many of those years and working with many local organizations on issues pertinent to children's health and well-being. She has been the recipient of several Community Builder Awards from the local United Way. She is currently serving as a core team member of the Sagadahoc Working Community Challenge Team funded by the Boston Federal Reserve and focusing on addressing youth depression as a barrier to achieving full potential and employment and connecting youth to community support.

Dr. Hagler is currently a pediatrician at Mid Coast Hospital and is the immediate past President of the Maine Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and continues to serve on its executive committee. She is leading the TREAT Me learning Collaborative for the Maine AAP Chapter focusing on Managing Adolescent Substance Use Disorders in Primary Care.

Eric Haram is owner of Haram Consulting LLC, whose aim is to improve community health and safety from the impact of substance use disorders, by providing consulting and technical assistance in the areas of strategic planning, workforce development, and systems improvement for States, Counties, and Organizations. Eric has 30 years of experience delivering, designing, and directing substance use treatment services in hospitals, correctional facilities, court systems, and community behavioral health centers. Haram Consulting, LLC provides consultation in 11 states, from California to West Virginia, including his home state of Maine, where he directs behavioral health services for York Hospital.

Kelley Harmon, DO is a graduate of the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine, is board certified in Family Medicine and Addiction Medicine, and has worked with family medicine residents and medical students at Maine Dartmouth Family Medicine Residency since she graduated from her own training there in 2009. She practices in both outpatient and inpatient settings delivering full spectrum family medicine, including special interest areas in obstetric, newborn, and addiction medicine care. She currently serves as the Director of Addiction Medicine and is the clinical lead of MaineMOM for MaineGeneral Medical Center in Augusta, Maine. She is originally from midcoast Maine and lives with her husband and two sons in central Maine.

John Kelly, PhD is the Elizabeth R. Spallin Professor of Psychiatry in Addiction Medicine at Harvard Medical School – the first endowed professor in addiction medicine at Harvard. He is also the Founder and Director of the Recovery Research Institute at the Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) and the Associate Director of the Center for Addiction Medicine (CAM) at MGH.

Dr. Kelly is a former President of the American Psychological Association's (APA) Society of Addiction Psychology, a founding member and inaugural President of the American Board of Addiction Psychology, a Fellow of the APA, and a Diplomate of the American Board of Professional Psychology. He has served as a consultant to U.S. federal agencies and non-federal institutions, as well as foreign governments, the United Nations and the World Health Organization.

Dr. Kelly has published over 200 peer-reviewed articles, reviews, chapters, and books in the field of addiction medicine, and was an author on the U.S. Surgeon General's Report on Alcohol, Drugs, and Health. He has won numerous state, national, and international lifetime achievements and distinguished scientist awards for his work.

His clinical and research endeavors have focused on addiction treatment and the recovery process, mechanisms of behavior change, and reducing stigma and discrimination among individuals suffering from addiction.

Arthur G. Padilla is a highly experienced nonprofit leader, dedicated to making a positive impact and integrating his personal journey of sobriety. Having overcome a decade of homelessness, he achieved sobriety in 1990. Hailing from Northern New Mexico, Arthur's passion for addressing addiction-related issues led him to found a crystal methamphetamine prevention collaborative in Seattle in 2007. This initiative aimed to combat the alarming rates of addiction and the associated HIV infections prevalent in the community. This project launched the Peer Recovery system in Washington State.

With 25 years of nonprofit leadership experience, Arthur has become renowned as a visionary and compassionate leader. He excels in interim executive roles, conducting DEIA assessments, strategic planning, and serving as an executive coach to dismantle racism within organizations. Additionally, Arthur possesses extensive expertise in senior-level evaluation, project consulting, training, and leveraging social media platforms for strategic marketing.

Arthur is the Senior Managing Partner at StrataG.Works, a consulting firm focused on nonprofit change and leadership management.

Nicholas Piotrowski, MD, is an addiction psychiatrist, Fellow of the American Society of Addiction Medicine, and Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at Tufts Medical School. Since 2020, Dr. Piotrowski has served as Medical Director of Addiction Psychiatry for Maine Behavioral Healthcare. He supervises medical treatment in four substance use treatment hubs in Southern and Coastal Maine and provides system leadership in substance use treatment at MaineHealth.

Brittany Reichmann is a life-long Maine resident, and a person in long term recovery. For over a decade she made recovery attempts that included recurrence of use and involvement with the criminal justice system. She is extremely passionate about the voices and opportunities of individuals with substance use disorder and those now in recovery, largely in part because of her own experience. Brittany currently is the Program Manager for the Maine Association of Recovery Residences... aside from a dedicated employee Brittany is an active community member, a recovery ally, a volunteer, a wife, and a mother.

She believes the more we gather and talk and share information about Substance Use Disorder and recovery, the less people have to assume and wonder. Sharing her experience in an effort to decrease stigma is one of her greatest passions. She is involved in her free time with various non-profit organizations within the community and as an alumni member of the Recovery Residence that helped to save her life. She currently resides in the very same town she spent years trying to get away from, but now with her husband and one year old son!

Elizabeth Simoni is the Executive Director of Maine Pretrial Services, Inc., a private non-profit dedicated to pretrial service delivery, treatment recovery court case management, and diversion options across Maine. She has served in her current role since 1996, and prior to that was a pretrial services case manager. In December of 2021, she completed twelve years of service on the National Association of Pretrial Services Agencies (NAPSA) board of directors, where she co-chaired publication of “The Essential Elements of Pretrial Services Systems and Agencies” and the 2020 revision of the NAPSA Pretrial Release Standards. She has been an active member of the National Institute of Corrections’ (NIC) Pretrial Executive Network since 2009. Ms. Simoni serves as a trainer for both NAPSA and NIC and is also a trainer in SAMHSA’s Trauma Informed Care series and for the Ontario Domestic Abuse Risk Assessment. Ms. Simoni previously served for thirteen years as a Maine Department of Corrections certified facilitator for domestic violence accountability courses. She serves as the criminal justice representative of the Co-Occurring Collaborative Serving Maine’s board of directors since 1996 and is a past board member for the New England Association of Recovery Courts. She graduated from the University of Maine School of Law (1992), and Michigan State University (1989).

Gordon H. Smith, Esq. was appointed by Governor Janet Mills as Director of Opioid Response in January 2019. He is responsible for coordinating and directing Maine’s response to the opioid crisis, including prescriber education and reduction of opioid prescribing, prevention and treatment of substance use disorder, and harm reduction strategies. He stepped down as the Executive Vice President (EVP) of the Maine Medical Association in January 2019, where he had served as its EVP since September 1993 and where he began as General Counsel in 1981. He graduated from the University of Maine with the highest distinction in 1973 and from the Boston College Law School, magna cum laude, in 1976. He is a past Chairman of the American Society of State Medical Association Counsel, a nation-wide group of 140 attorneys representing medical associations. Mr. Smith has also served as Chairman of the American Medical Association/State Medical Society Litigation Center, the Maine Health Data Organization and the Advocacy Resource Center of the American Medical Association. He is a former board member and chair of Quality Counts, a former board member of the Daniel Hanley Center for Health Leadership, and the Maine Association of Area Agencies on Aging. Mr. Smith is a frequent lecturer to medical groups on various medical legal subjects.

Amanda Thompson is employed by Maine Behavioral Healthcare as a Program Manager for Substance Use Peer Recovery Services. She is a Certified Intentional Peer Support Specialist and Recovery Coach Professional Facilitator. In her role she supports a team of Peer Recovery Partners working with individuals in substance use treatment, Emergency Departments, and MaineMOM. Amanda is a person in long term recovery from Substance Use Disorder and believes that utilizing others with lived experience to support those struggling and navigating care is vital to enhancing access to services, improving patient outcomes and creating lasting change.

Anne-Marie Toderico, PharmD is the Pharmacy Director for MaineCare, Maine’s Medicaid program. Prior to joining MaineCare, Anne-Marie was the program manager for Maine Center for Disease Control and Prevention’s contact tracing program. Here she worked with a remote team of Maine citizens to trace COVID-19 exposures across the state. Anne-Marie’s experiences before state government, include administrative roles as Director of Operations for a large physician owned practice and Director of Drug Use Policy for MaineHealth, a large, local health system. She started in healthcare as an IT analyst and led the build for the nurse, physician, and pharmacy portion of the health system’s electronic health record. Anne-Marie has served as an executive on her state affiliate pharmacy association and for a local health system leadership alumni organization. Her hidden talent is knitting and crocheting; she can be found creating scarves and sweaters while procrastinating or avoiding outdoor chores.

Andrea Truncali MD, MPH is a board-certified physician in both Internal and Addiction Medicine, and an Assistant Professor of Medicine at Tufts University. She completed medical school and residency at New York University, followed by further training in preventive medicine and public health. In pursuit of improving the health and well-being of underserved people, Dr Truncali takes care of patients in specialty substance use treatment as well as primary care settings, provides education and guidance to physicians on the topic of substance use disorder, and contributes to activities at the state level regarding substance use prevention and treatment.

Kristen Silvia, MD after attending UMASS Medical School in Worcester, completed her residency in Family Medicine at Maine Medical Center in 2006. She worked as a family physician and clinical faculty member at Scarborough Family Medicine until 2016. During her 10 years as a primary care provider, she treated many patients with opioid use disorder. In 2016, she transitioned from primary care to being the Medical Director for the Maine Medical Partners outpatient Integrated Medication Assisted Treatment (IMAT) program. She also serves as the Primary Care Director for the MaineHealth Substance Use Disorder Initiative, which developed a system-wide response to the opioid epidemic. In 2018, Dr. Silvia earned board certification in Addiction Medicine. She is currently the Program Director for Maine Medical Center's Addiction Medicine Fellowship and the Chief of MMC's Addiction Medicine Division. She is also an Associate Clinical Professor at the Tufts School of Medicine.

Rachel Solotaroff, MD, is the Executive Clinical Director of Substance Use Disorder Services at Penobscot Community Health Care, where she provides patient care, oversees substance use disorders care delivery in the outpatient setting, and providing medical direction for withdrawal management at New Horizons. Prior to moving to Maine, Rachel served as Chief Medical Officer and then CEO at Central City Concern in Portland, Oregon. Rachel's interest lies in using a population health framework to address the complex intersection of homelessness and substance use disorders, often accompanied by trauma, social isolation, and mental illness. Rachel is a general internist with additional board certification in Addiction Medicine and holds a Masters in Clinical Research.